Friday, February 12, 2010

- The American Society of Civil Engineers West TN Branch Younger Members Group is organizing a Canstruction® competition to take place February 12, 2010 at the Herff College of Engineering at The University of Memphis.
- Canstruction® is a design competition in which teams enter and compete against one another to make the best design out of canned food items. Visit our website at: <http://www.ascewn.org/Canstruction.html> or www.canstruction.org for more details!
- After the competition all of the cans used in the designs will be donated to the Memphis Food Bank to help those most in need.
- Great opportunity for high school students to collaborate with college engineering students and professional engineers!
- Participating teams will be sponsored by local engineering firms. Space is limited so sign up today!!!
